

Position Title: Manager-in-Training

Alpine Lumber, Colorado's most successful independent manufacturer and distributor of quality building products is seeking to identify our next Manager in Training candidate. Alpine is employee owned, profitable and has been nominated for Top Companies Award by the National Homebuilders Association.

Ideal candidates will possess a Bachelors degree in Construction Management or Business and a minimum of two years of leadership experience. This is not a desk job! The MIT program provides exposure to leadership opportunities in all areas of our business operations. Candidates must be able to become fork lift driver certified, able to lift up to 100 lbs, have excellent verbal and written communication skills, excellent math and reasoning skills, strong interpersonal and customer service skills.

Candidates must be available to work all shifts, be available for weekend and overtime when necessary. In most cases upon completion, the candidate will be required to relocate...but check out where we are located! Would you believe Steamboat, Telluride, Crested Butte, Denver, Angel Fire New Mexico and seventeen other great locations. Base salary plus excellent benefits including employer paid medical and ESOP. Send resume and cover letter to careers@alpinelumber.com